EndNote Desktop: Change Citation Style

To change a citation style while working in a Microsoft Word document, click on the dropdown arrow in the Style box on the EndNote X8 menu tab. Choose one of the styles listed in the dropdown menu, OR click on “Select Another Style…” to view more choices in a dialog box.

Inserted citations and references are automatically changed to the new style throughout the Word document, and the style that has been applied is listed in the “Style” menu box.

EndNote Desktop offers more than 6000 styles, many of which are specific to individual journals. To increase the choices available from within Word, styles can be located and downloaded from the EndNote website at: http://endnote.com/downloads/styles
The menu of citation styles in the short drop-down list can be modified within EndNote Desktop by going to the “Edit” menu, then “Output Styles” and “Open Style Manager…” Use the check boxes in front of each listed style to select or deselect a style. Styles can also be located by subject by using the “Find By” button. The Style menu in Word will change to reflect the selected styles from the Style Manager in EndNote Desktop.
